Workshop: Mosaics with Kathryn Luther, March 2, 9 a.m. – 5 p.m.

My college degree was just the beginning of a journey which has led me through years of experimentation, discovery and personal expression in an unusual medium: mosaics.

My home and studios are located just south of Fargo; a pottery studio where I make the tiles used in the majority of my projects, and a mosaic studio where I assemble the finished tiles into the final piece. Although I sometimes use glass or found objects in my mosaics, the majority are made from earthenware clay. Creating my own tiles allows infinite possibilities in color, texture, shape and design. The tiles are formed, fired, glazed, re-fired, then glued and grouted before a piece is completed. Now retired, I am joyfully spending my days in my studios as a "full time" artist.
